Also available for Android and Windows Phone devices, download Advent Calendar today and discover so many more reasons to enjoy the season!

triomis built Advent Calendar using their unique app content management system. This robust and versatile system allows them to build new content based apps with many unique functions and capabilities.

Advent Calendar is a great example to showcase triomis' commitment to providing one of the best frameworks for app development. Andreas Thurek, CTO & Chief Architect at triomis said: "Everything we build is designed for velocity. Our continuous integration and deployment environment can be deployed for thousands of other apps to be built on. It is challenging to supply and ship an update to an app every week or month but that is where the triomis app framework assists our customers and users".

By the time Apple, Microsoft, Amazon or Nokia approved the first release of Advent Calendar in their app store, triomis is already able to ship significant updates to the app internally from their Windows Azure-based Cloud management platform. "We were excited to release the latest version of our app CMS - 1.5.0 - that the latest version of Advent Calendar is built on. We wish all customers and users a peaceful and silent advent season." said Andreas Thurek.
